Dianova International

The Organisation Internationale Dianova (also known as Dianova International) is a Swiss non-governmental organization committed to social progress and supporting the development of programmes and projects aimed at improving people's lives in 19 countries and 4 continents. The organization is also dedicated to defending their rights to health, equality and social integration through interventions in international organizations and forums.

Letter from the Director General

Dear readers,

I am pleased to share with you the summary of the activities of Dianova International members for the year 2019. Not all their activities are mentioned, however we were able to paint a true picture of the network's engagement on four continents.

Indeed, at the time of writing, the second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic is disrupting daily life, economic life, as well as all the social and health care systems in most countries where our organizations are operating. The response to the pandemic will of course be detailed in next year's report, but I want to point out here that our members are in a difficult situation today. This is the reason why some of them have fallen behind in providing their data.

Our members' activities are presented based on their impact on the United Nations 2030 Agenda and on the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). These 17 goals were designed to steer the world to several life-changing and life-saving "zeros": poverty, hunger, disease, discrimination against women and many more.

These objectives are not so separate from each other, on the contrary, they are all interconnected: by acting on a given objective, the activities of our members also have an impact on other goals and targets. This is what we wanted to reflect in this report.

In the end, what it reveals is that internationality is a core value of Dianova. Our network is active in different countries and regions of the world. From Chile to Bangladesh, via Portugal, we work within fundamentally diverse cultures, with populations with very different needs. This multiculturalism, this diversity of needs and therefore of the work teams and the projects implemented, is also Dianova's strength.

Our teams' efforts are enormous. Over the past thirty years, the world has faced numerous crises, such as the financial crisis of 2007-2009. All of these crises have slowed human development and affected the most vulnerable first, as always. As a result of these crises, Dianova's teams - like the rest of the third sector - had to do more with less. More needs and less funding.

The teams of our member organizations have to face this reality every day. They do it with courage. Everyone collaborates, discusses and innovates with the same goal: reaching out to the most vulnerable. I would like to thank them from the bottom of my heart, as well as all those who support our work.

Individually we are a drop, together we are an ocean.
