Who We Are

Dianova International

The Dianova International Organization or Dianova International is a Swiss NGO of public utility, dedicated to social progress.

The organization supports the development of initiatives aimed at improving people's lives in 19 countries and 4 continents. In addition, Dianova International is dedicated to defending people's rights and interests in matters of health, equality and social integration before international bodies and forums.

Lastly, through the activities they carry out, Dianova International and its members have a direct and indirect impact on the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals and their targets.

Our Mission

Developing initiatives and programs with the objective of promoting personal self-reliance and social progress.

Our Vision

Our society must cope with many social challenges such as poverty, a lack of education, violence and addictions. Dianova's purpose is based on the conviction that, with appropriate support, each person will be able to find within him/herself the resources necessary to achieve success in his/her personal development and social integration.

Our Values

Our ethical framework and common core values are grounded on four main values:

- Commitment
- Solidarity
- Tolerance
- Internationality

A Word from the President

By Mary Christine Lizarza

2022 has not been an easy year. After a deeply disruptive period marked by the COVID-19 pandemic, we've had to face an armed conflict in Europe whose effects have impacted and continue to impact the global economy and the economic forecasts of most institutions, deteriorating the social conditions for many people who were already in a situation of vulnerability. In this context, social and humanitarian organizations have obviously been seriously affected.

For the member associations and foundations of the Organisation Internationale Dianova (OID), recovery has been difficult, especially in a sector such as addiction and addictive behaviour care, which often lacks the attention and financial support required. This complex environment has posed many challenges to our teams. However, they have all worked hard to do their best to continue to support people in vulnerable situations, those who suffer the most from these conditions.

This year, we would like to highlight first of all that OID has been recognized in Switzerland as an organisation of public utility. This recognition represents, above all, the recognition of the legitimacy of our organisation in an action that extends far beyond Swiss borders, proof of the country's international commitment and its openness to the world.

Our advocacy work in Switzerland and at the international level in international organizations and forums focuses on health, drug policy and human rights. In total, we carried out some 190 advocacy actions in international forums and organizations last year. All our action at this level is geared towards a single cause: social and human progress that leaves no one behind!

Throughout 2022, more than 144,000 people have benefited directly or indirectly from our programmes and activities on four continents and our communication campaigns have had an impact on 4,224,830 people.

On behalf of the Assembly Council and as President of this organization, I would like to thank the 545 staff and more than 1,700 volunteers who actively collaborate in our network. I would also like to thank all the organizations, companies and individuals who, throughout the year, have given us their support to continue helping those who need it most. Finally, I would like to thank all our beneficiaries for their trust.

Without all of you, nothing would be possible!

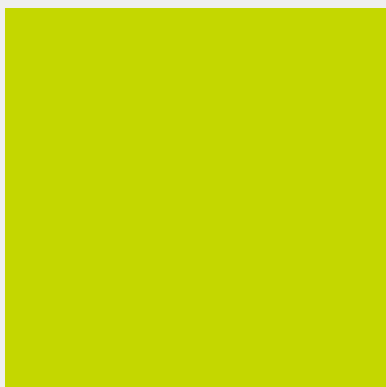

Governance

The Assembly of Delegates brings together the delegates of ordinary and affiliated members, individual honorary members and representatives of associate members and collective honorary members.

The Assembly Council comprises between five and eleven members. It is elected for a four-year term. Its members may be re-elected.

International Relations & Advocacy

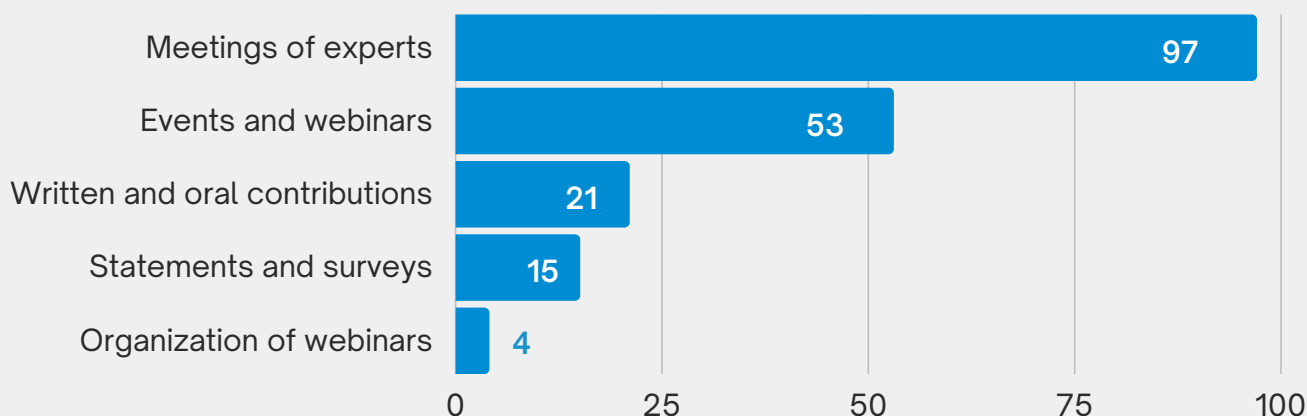

Note: The acronyms of the organizations mentioned in the text are given in their English version, which is often the most widely used

The advocacy actions carried out by Dianova International within international organizations and forums aim to defend the rights of people in vulnerable situations and to influence decision-making processes.

In 2022, our actions had a specific impact on the following areas of interest:

- Health and drug policies
- Gender perspective, children's rights and addiction
- Role of civil society
- Follow up and review of 2030 Agenda

Participation by Type of Activity

Grand total: 190 advocacy actions

Health & Drug Policies

Helping people with substance use disorders and other addictive behaviours to improve their health and quality of life is at the heart of the activities of most members of the Dianova network. For this reason, it is an essential focus of Dianova International's advocacy activities.

Our Stances

Addictive behaviour is a public health issue and addiction services should therefore be considered essential

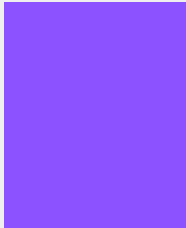

Why? - Addiction-related disorders can have serious consequences that can have an impact on many sectors of society, which is why everyone is affected. Emphasizing the essential nature of addiction services also means that the most vulnerable people can be reached, particularly in the event of a national or global crisis such as COVID-19.

We need to fund and implement a wide range of approaches in the fields of prevention, treatment and rehabilitation, harm reduction, and reintegration

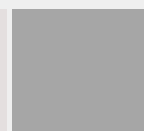

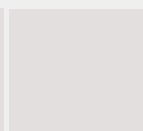

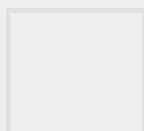

Why? - Addictive behaviour takes many forms, and its causes and consequences are just as varied as the people concerned. Nor is there a single approach that meets everyone's needs. That's why Dianova is calling for the funding of a multiplicity of approaches, at all stages of the care continuum.

Policies and services should be respectful of human rights and dignity, and based on scientific evidence

Why? - Drug policies shouldn't be limited to repression, but also concern themselves with the health and well-being of the populations affected, at all levels and from a human rights-based perspective. Care and support services should aim to improve people's quality of life while respecting their choices and capabilities, through approaches which have proved their effectiveness.

■ Gender, Children's Rights and Addiction

As an Organisation committed to social progress, Dianova defends gender equality, the empowerment of women and girls and respect for children's rights. In the field of addiction, this is reflected in the following commitments:

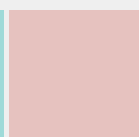

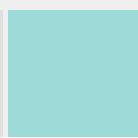

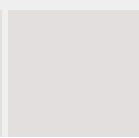

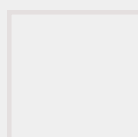

■ Our Stances

It is essential to mainstream the gender perspective in the design and implementation of drug policies and addiction services

Why? - Drug policies and addiction services at all levels should ensure that the specificities of women and LGBT+ people are taken into account, including: the vulnerabilities and needs of women associated with drug trafficking in producing countries, stigma and its consequences, and structural barriers to accessing treatment and harm reduction services.

We need to promote the rights of children whose parents or guardians have drug use disorders

Why? - Children living with parents or guardians who have problems with alcohol or drug use can be negatively affected in the short and long term. Promoting these children's rights involves: designing and implementing targeted interventions, encouraging services to focus on the parental responsibilities of clients in treatment programmes, and promoting the participation of other social services through dedicated training.

■ Role of Civil Society

Civil society organizations and non-governmental organizations have an important role to play in the development of health and social policies, as they are familiar with the needs and difficulties of the people in need.

■ Our Stance

It is essential to significantly integrate civil society organizations into the decision-making process

Why? - People and groups in vulnerable situations need to be supported and accompanied, particularly in periods of social and economic turmoil. Civil society organizations have the capacity to ensure that everyone's needs are taken into account; they should therefore participate in the design of health and social policies

With this in mind, Dianova has joined networks and platforms that share the same conviction, and is participating in the development of mechanisms to achieve this objective.

■ Actions & Events

Ibero-American Network of NGOs Working in the Field of Drugs and Addiction

RIOD

- Participation in the development of a practical guide to international advocacy practices: "International Advocacy: Where, How, When and Why?" and participation of Dianova's representative at the document presentation event - Read the article in: EN ES FR - See guide (in Spanish)

- 12 December - Support for the development of a UN code of conduct to formalize the UN's engagement with civil society
- 14-16 December - Participation in the International NGO Conference of the NGO-UNESCO Liaison Committee in hybrid format

■ 2030 Agenda

Through the activities they develop, Dianova International and its members have a direct and indirect impact on various Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and their targets, which is why these goals represent an important analytical framework to assess the organization's impact.

■ Our Stance

Implementing the 2030 Agenda is a crucial challenge, and civil society as a whole must play its part in this endeavour

Dianova promotes a better understanding of the issues associated with sustainable development and the 2030 Agenda, at all levels - see our web page in : EN ES FR

Campaigns & Projects

"No to War and Patriarchy"

8 March, International Women's Day

To mark International Women's Day, Dianova launched a social media campaign to raise public awareness of the structural inequalities still faced by women, which result in increased vulnerability. While these inequalities have been intensified by the COVID-19 pandemic, the war in Ukraine and climate change, they are not inevitable, but action must be taken

Let's Make Mental Health a Priority for Everyone

10 October, World Mental Health Day

Dianova relayed the UN campaign on its social media channels to raise awareness of the importance of mental health care. It is estimated that mental disorders affect one in eight people worldwide. Yet despite these pressing needs, intensified by the pandemic (25% increase in cases of anxiety disorders and depression), services and funding are not keeping pace. Everyone must have access to the services they need.

UNiTE to End Violence against Women!

International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women

As it does every year on 25 November, Dianova joined the United Nations campaign to end violence against women. Via its social networks, Dianova relayed the essential message of mobilizing governments, civil society, the media, the private sector, etc., to join forces to tackle the global epidemic of violence against women and girls.

"Together, We Grow"

Prevention Programme

The "Together, We Grow. Families as agents of health" campaign implemented last year served as the basis for a universal prevention programme aimed at parents and guardians of young people and adolescents likely to be affected by risky behaviour (problematic use of alcohol and other drugs, compulsive use of online games and social media, etc.) The programme was implemented throughout 2022 in collaboration with the Rotary Action Group for Addiction Prevention (RAG AP).

Highlights

Child and Adolescent Sexual Abuse and its Relationship to Substance Use as a Consequence of a Complex Trauma

Author: Alexandra Membrive, President of El Mundo de los ASI - article originally published in Infonova, professional and academic journal on addiction

This article examines the correlation between childhood sexual abuse and substance use in adolescence or adulthood as an indicator of the genesis of trauma. Analysis of the two variables highlights the importance of assessing and developing a comprehensive approach to traumatic sexual violence in the treatment of patients with substance use disorders. Specific training for professional teams is therefore recommended.

Preventing Addictive and Other Risky Behaviour Among Young People

Author: Antonio Jesús Molina-Fernández (Department of Social, Work and Differential Psychology; Complutense University of Madrid/UCM)

The development of children and their families is influenced by structural, relational and individual factors likely to generate a wide range of difficulties and vulnerabilities that need to be addressed. The article reviews the various educational and therapeutic tools available to help the adolescents and their families. Lastly, the author recommends targeting risk behaviours rather than just consumption problems, before briefly presenting the prevention programme "Together, We Grow. Families as health agents".

Statement by Dianova International to the CSW66

Dianova Statement to the 66th Session of the UN Commission on the Status of Women on the Impact of Climate Change and Environmental Disasters on the Mental Health of People, Especially Women

The declaration stresses the growing threat posed by climate change, not only as regards the economy, human habitats, ecosystems and migratory movements, but also in terms of mental health, particularly for the most vulnerable. Dianova calls for mental health to be taken into account in climate change impact assessments, and for the gender perspective to be fully taken into account in the design of related policies and programmes.
